

Gorge Swing: Freefall into the Batoka Gorge

DURATION*1 Hour*FROM*USD 134 per person*MINIMUM*2 travellers

A full commit off the lip of the Batoka Gorge. You freefall first, then the rope catches and converts the drop into an enormous pendulum swing out across the gorge. Short, loud, and the one most people talk about afterwards.

Itinerary

1*Kit up and briefZimbabwe*

You are fitted into a full body harness and the crew run through the system: the anchor, the rope, the swing arc and the recovery. The brief is short because the activity is short. The crew will tell you plainly what the first two seconds feel like.

2*The edgeZimbabwe*

You are walked to the launch point on the gorge rim. There is no platform theatre here, just the edge, the rock wall opposite and the river below. You can step off or be counted down. Both are normal and the crew will not push you.

3*Freefall and swingZimbabwe*

The first phase is a genuine vertical drop, not a swing, and that is what makes this one different from a zip line. The rope then loads and you sweep out in a long arc across the gorge, swinging back and forth with the walls moving past on either side.

4*Haul outZimbabwe*

Once the swing settles you are winched back up the gorge face to the rim. Tandem runs are available if you would rather not do the first second on your own, and are booked as a separate product.
